FRIENDS OF SILVER.

Closing Scene of the Colorado Silver Convention.

A Permanent Association of Silver Men Organized.

Preamble and Resolutions Adopted by the Convention.

A Strong Argument for the Remonetization of Silver.

The Colorado Silver Convention

DENVER, Colorado, November 14.—The silver convention did not conclude its labors until after 3 o'clock. A plan of organization which is to be known as the Colorado Silver association was formed with Hon. H. A. W. Tabor as president and a vice president for each county in the state. The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Sixteen years have elapsed since by means indirect and unknown to the people and without their consent the silver dollar was demonetized by the United States congress and silver was thus stricken from its position as a standard money metal to which it had been consecrated by the laws, the customs and traditions of our people from the foundation of the government, and

WHEREAS, This action of the United States congress was followed by congressional or similar one on the part of some foreign governments not so immediately responsible to their people and done in such and every case during a temporary suspension of coin payments or when the minds of the people were engrossed in efforts to repair the waste of accident and devastating wars during which their indebtedness, public and private, had been largely increased, and

WHEREAS, This concert of action, this similarity of circumstances and incidents together with its consequences now so widely and painfully evident, furnish simple corroboration of the general belief that it was the result of a conspiracy of the few against the many; of the creditor class against the debtor class; of the bondholders against the taxpayers; of the consumers against the producers; of the lender against the worker; and,

WHEREAS, These sixteen years have been marked by constantly declining prices of staple commodities and of all the products of the farm and shop, and also by the taking from producers of more than 30 per cent of their gross productions thereby taking that amount of the misers' earnings for the sole benefit of the United States treasury and increasing the amount of all debts and fixed obligations, requiring more and more pounds of wheat and corn, and cotton, and beef, and pork, and lead, and iron, and coal to liquidate these obligations, with no definite assurance from any source as to when this contraction of prices will cease; and

WHEREAS, This condition of things has now been definitely traced by the most careful and reliable observers in the world to the destruction of one half its standard money by the acts before referred to, demonetizing silver, thereby increasing the use of and a demand for gold, the sole remaining standard of money metal, making it relatively dearer and dearer, while the lessening yield of the mines and its increased use as an article of luxurious display makes it absolutely so—facts now confessed by statesmen who formerly held different opinions, and

WHEREAS, Efforts heretofore made in part successful to secure a partial remedy for the ills described through the coinage of token legal tender silver dollars were met by all manner of predictions of evil to the people and the nation from those who favored the single gold standard and who reiterated their evil prophecies in season and out of season, every one of which predictions have been proved erroneous by the experience of the whole people during the last sixteen years, thus showing the prophets to be either ignorant or insincere. Now, therefore, the people of Colorado in representative convention assembled declare

First. That the time has fully come when the shrinking of prices and the confiscation of the products of labor by those who hold the debts should cease, that equity between debtor and creditor and a just money measure for liquidating all obligations must be restored, and that this can be accomplished by a speedy and untried experiment, by simply restoring to us the system of metal money coinage that prevailed for 76 years and which has in the past proved so beneficent to the people of this and other nations.

Second—That we demand of the Fifty-first congress soon to be assembled, an act for the immediate restoration of silver and for the free and unlimited coinage of the silver dollar of 412½ grains, nine tenths fine, on the same terms and conditions as the dollar of gold coin in legal tender, and our senators and representatives in congress are hereby instructed and use all legitimate means to secure such legislation.

Third. That until such time as the free coinage of silver shall begin we demand that the department of the government exercise of its discretion under the act of February 28, 1887, commonly called the "Bland bill" to the purchase and coinage of silver dollars per month provided in that act, and that national legislation to that end be had in a liberal revision of the treasury department to facilitate the circulation of silver dollars and silver certificates among the people, or additional legislation if it shall appear necessary.

Fourth—That the time has arrived for the concert of the United States in the matter of the free coinage of silver; that the nations of the world follow, that while we bear no defiant stand, we think the United States government is able to lead in the operation and that we demand that congress shall no longer allow the treasury to fail to exercise the discretion in its hands to coin silver from the fiscal year and the increase of the branches of industry and classes of people.

Fifth—That we demand of the Fifty-first congress soon to be assembled, an act for the immediate restoration of silver and for the free and unlimited coinage of the silver dollar of 412½ grains, nine tenths fine, on the same terms and conditions as the dollar of gold coin in legal tender, and our senators and representatives in congress are hereby instructed and use all legitimate means to secure such legislation.

Sixth—That we appeal to the people of our country to join in enforcing these just demands in behalf of industry and business of every legitimate kind and everywhere it being now well considered belief that the measures we demand will bring prosperity to every workshop in the land. Silver and farm products went down together. By these measures they will rise together.

Seventh—That we demand the repeal of all laws by which silver has been demonetized or coinage limited by statute and the immediate passage of such declaratory act by congress for the information and guidance of the department and bureau officials as may be necessary to define and protect the rights of the people in relation to coinage as they were defined and protected by the declaratory acts of Congress from 1792 to 1873.

Retainer Fee Paid

DENVER, November 14.—This afternoon State Treasurer Brisbane paid to Judge Dixon $1,250 as a retainer fee. Judge Wells received the same amount a few days ago. These gentlemen are the men who were some time ago appointed by Governor Cooper to assist Attorney General Jones in the prosecution of cases wherein, it is alleged, the state has been robbed of large sums.

Base Ball Rules.

NEW YORK, November 14.—At to-day's meeting of the National Base Ball league the consideration of the constitution was resumed and section 35 was read. It relates to the release of players from contract or reservation and says that future contracts with released players shall be regulated and governed by the national agreement of professional base ball clubs and the league legislation made in pursuance thereof. It was amended so as to read that "no player without the consent of the club with which he is in contract or reservation can negotiate with any other club for his services. But if said consent is given, said player may negotiate with any club for his services and receive a money consideration therefor, which may be accepted by the release club." This action does away with the system of "ale" over which there recently has been such a cry.

Just at nightfall a rumor crept about among baseball men that Brooklyn and Cincinnati had broken the deadlock in the association contest by withdrawing from the association and joining the league. When President Byrne of Brooklyn and President Stern, of Cincinnati, were asked if the report was true, they admitted it was. Shortly after 7 o'clock the league convention adjourned for the night.

A Will Will Wait.

CHICAGO, November 14. The will of the late John Crerar was admitted to probate to-day. The will discloses $3,500,000 in personal property and real estate valued at $50,000. To a number of persons he leaves sums ranging from ten to twenty thousand dollars. A large number of bequests ranging from $10,000 to $50,000 each were given to charities, hospitals, historical, scientific and literary societies, etc., and a number of friends. He gives $100,000 to the Second Presbyterian church of Chicago, and the same amount to the trustees of that church, the income to be used for mission work. One hundred thousand dollars for a portrait statue of Abraham Lincoln was also left. The remainder of the estate estimated to be worth $3,250,000, was set apart for the erection and maintenance of a public library in the city of Chicago, to be known as the "John Crerar Library."

The Y. W. C. T. U.

CHICAGO, November 14.—The executive committee of the National Women's Christian Temperance union to-day decided to accept the invitation tendered by the state and other officials of Georgia to hold the next convention in Atlanta. The officers say no action will be taken in the Iowa matter until they learn what action the Iowa state unions decide to take. At a meeting of the executive committee to-night, however, it was resolved to invite the Iowa members of the W. C. T. U., regardless of their sympathies with any political party, to meet and consult as to the best method of procedure in view of the withdrawal of the Iowa delegation headed by Mrs. Foster. Mrs. Carhart of Marion, Ia., will furnish cards admitting to the privileges of the conference all women who desire to adhere to the National W. C. T. U.

Will Import Live Oxen.

WASHINGTON, November 14.—Commercial Agent Smith, at New York, reports that the prevalence of high prices for meat in Germany has caused a firm of butchers in Mayence to try the experiment of importing live oxen from the United States, and that arrangements have been made for the shipment from Illinois to Germany of nine hundred head of fat oxen within two months. This is the first time live oxen from the United States have been imported into Germany. The first lot of cattle arrived in the week preceding the report and the animals were sold at a price from ten to fifteen per cent. less than the German cattle, notwithstanding the heavy cost of transportation and the customs duty.

Asbury Objects.

NEW YORK, November 14.—Frank G. Hollins, a shareholder of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railroad, has brought action in the New York supreme court to restrain the company from transferring to the Great Northern railway, $22,000,000 of the assets and securities belonging to the Manitoba company and leasing the railways of the Manitoba company to the Great Northern for ninety nine years, as proposed in the circulars issued in pursuance of the vote of the Manitoba shareholders a few weeks since. The complainant alleges he is greatly injured by the proposed transfer.

The Parnell Commission

LONDON, November 14.—Upon the reassembling of the Parnell commission this morning the cashier of the National bank testified as to the accounts kept at the bank by the members of the house. Biggar objected to the testimony as irrelevant. Justice Hannen suggested that Biggar be present when counsel for the Times went over the accounts to prevent passing upon the private business. Sir Henry James then resumed his argument in support of the charges made by the Times.

Durant-Bonnybel Suit

DENVER, Nov. 14.—The Durant Bonnybel suit was resumed this morning in the United States court. Assayer Bastle was recalled to describe further the samples of ore taken by him from the surface near the shaft house on the Durant claim, which he said assayed three ounces per ton in silver. A sample from the lower vein assayed two ounces. A sample from the top of the Gallagher Winze assayed 11 ounces. Twenty five feet below a sample assayed 13 ounces. These samples were all taken on Durant ground above the Bonnybel workings. He further said that ore was shown all along the contact, though not in large quantities. He said that the floor of the big stope in the Bonnybel was full of porphyry. Assayer Rouse of Aspen similarly testified the same as did Bastle.

Here the defense rested and Mr. Teller on behalf of the defendant, John C. Eames, asked leave to present an answer of his client in which he set forth that the case should not be further prosecuted against the said Eames for the reason that plaintiff had on April 21, 1886, agreed not to hold certain of the co-defendants (D. R. C. Brown and Elmer E. Butler) responsible or liable for any costs damages or other liabilities in connection with this suit. The court declined to entertain or listen to arguments upon this plea.

The defense then opened by presenting certain documentary evidence, such as patents, etc., and then called C. J. Moore. He testified: There is a well defined vein of ore in place, having its apex on Bonnybel ground. It was a blue lime hanging wall, a brown lime foot wall, with the vein matter between. There is some porphyry but no other rock shown in it. The porphyry is an obtrusive rock which may be found anywhere or in any shape on the mountain. The Bonnybel has a dip to the northwest and downwards into the mountain. The witness then explained upon a map the location and relative position of disputed grounds and workings thereon. The outcrop of the Bonnybel vein is to the east of the big stope on the Bonnybel workings and immediately opposite thereto. At the time I made the affidavit referred to heretofore there were very few workings and very little development upon the disputed grounds. Almost all development has been made since that time. There were not over half a dozen places where blue lime was shown in the roof of the stope then. Nothing else but ore was shown then. Afterwards a portion of the roof of the stope caved in, showing blue lime hanging walls. According to measurements and assays made, the amount and value of the ore taken out from the disputed ground was 140 tons, which assayed $35.17 per ton, and after deducting expenses making a net total value of $4,900 approximately. The witness then proceeded with a minute description of the geological formations as disclosed by the various workings on the disputed territory.

[illegible] New Mexico

HELENA, Montana, November 14.—The election muddle in Silver Bow county is growing worse daily. On Tuesday Judge DeWolfe retired from the office, and Mellatton, the democrat who is elected by counting the Tunnel precinct, took the chair. He also recognized as the sheriff of the county, Sullivan, the democratic candidate whose case was analogous to his own. Lloyd who was the old sheriff and who was the republican candidate at the last election, claims he was elected by the throwing out of the Tunnel precinct, and refuses to surrender the keys of his office and jail to Sullivan. To day the habeas corpus cases of two men under indictment for dynamiting were called up by Judge Mellatton, but Lloyd refused to surrender the prisoners to Sullivan who was directed to produce them in court. Hamilton, the contesting judge, opened another court and Lloyd brought the prisoners before him.

Keeping his Mouth Closed.

WASHINGTON, November 14.—The president left the city last night by way of the Baltimore and Potomac railroad for a few days' duck shooting. It is not known exactly where he has gone but it is supposed to the once famous duck hunting grounds in Maryland in the vicinity of Chesapeake bay. Private Secretary Halford said to day he could not tell where the president was, because he did not know. The president wanted a few days uninterrupted recreation and the only way he could have it was by keeping his movements secret.

BALTIMORE, Md., November 14.—The Sun's special from Chase, Md., says that President Harrison and General Sewell arrived last night and were met by the Benzie's Point club. This morning the president went in the blind and killed five big brace of ducks. The president will remain until Saturday.

Black Bart Confesses.

BESSEMER, Michigan, November 14.—Reimund Holzhay, "Black Bart," who is on trial for the murder of Banker Fleischbein of Belleville, Illinois, and the robbery of the Geyserville stage, took the stand in his own defense today and made a confession. He admitted that he robbed the Milwaukee and Northern train six months ago held up the Wisconsin Central train at Cadott, Wisconsin one month later and waylaid the Geyserville stage and shot Banker Fleischbein. Holzhay says he worked on the Ontonagon river for three years and then deciding a change went to Portland, Oregon, for a [illegible] Puget Sound country, where he worked in a mill for five months. He also spent eight weeks in riding about the country and was in the west altogether about eight months. While in Washington territory, Holzhay said he was injured by his horse falling upon him and that he laid unconscious for some time after [illegible]

Discussion Not Proper.

SANTA FE, New Mexico, November 14.—Anthony J. Joseph, New Mexico's delegate in congress, in an interview says that immediately upon the assembling of congress in December he proposes to introduce an enabling act for the admission of New Mexico. It has already been tacitly understood between the delegates in congress from the territories of Wyoming, Idaho, Arizona and New Mexico that an omnibus bill for the admission of these territories shall be earnestly pushed forward. "The most prominent members of congress are with us and have pledged themselves," said Joseph. "I think New Mexico's chances are exceedingly good."

ZANZIBAR, November 14.—The sultan of Zanzibar refuses to entertain the demand of the East African company for an indemnity to cover the losses suffered by the company because of the recent revolt. He demands the payment of the subsidy promised by the company for the first experimental year of its operations. The company resists the demand and thinks a second year should be allowed on the ground that it is impossible to estimate the loss it has suffered.

Knights of Labor.

ATLANTA, Georgia, November 14.—The report of the committee on law occupied the convention of the Knights of Labor this morning. It was resolved that on Saturday the convention will go into committee of the whole to consider the state of the order. Several committees were appointed but only routine work was done.

In the Alley Behind Every Lot in Parrish's Addition

There is a 8-inch Water Pipe, connected at Chestnut street with a 16-inch main; the Largest in the City's System. THE MAIN CITY DITCH, taking pure, clear water from the Fountain, runs just back of PARRISH'S ADDITION, and within a stone's throw of it.

The New York Times is authority for the statement that Lord Dufferin, while making a long visit on Lord Rosebery some time ago, stated that he was in full sympathy with the principles of Gladstone's home rule bill, and that he should make a public announcement of his position just as soon as he had completed the short term necessary to serve as ambassador at Rome, in order to secure him a first class diplomatic pension. It is said that this announcement will bring over thousands who are wavering. Ever since the death of Lord Lyons, the Earl Dufferin has been considered the ablest man in the diplomatic service. He has had, in the last fifteen years, the most important diplomatic positions under the English government, always serving where the strain was supposed to be greatest and the need of diplomatic tact and ability most pressing.

Next Sunday we publish the second installment of the "Three Burglars," the new serial by Frank R. Stockton. This story we publish simultaneously with many of the largest newspapers of the east. By mistake we did not receive the first installment in season to begin with the papers in the east, but on Sunday we shall publish parts of two installments so that hereafter we shall publish the same matter that is published in the eastern papers. Frank R. Stockton now ranks above any other American serial story writer, and our readers should not fail to read this story as it comes out. We shall also publish the following from our special European correspondent: "Anomalies of the English Marriage Laws" by Mrs. Ashton Dilke; "The Truth about the Brown Sequard Elixir of Life" from an interview with the discoverer, by Henry La Lubarne; and "Autumn in the Tyrol" by George L. Catlin. Our Sunday paper is appreciated by advertisers and all who wish to reach the largest number in the Springs with anything worth offering to the public should improve the opportunity by advertising in the Sunday GAZETTE.

The very brief report which we have published of the recent Catholic celebration in Baltimore shows the wonderful power and influence of the Catholic church in this country. This is the first time that the laymen have taken so prominent a part, and while the Roman Catholic church may possess within its ranks a large number of very ignorant people who have come from European nations, yet it also embraces in its ranks some of our most cultivated citizens. Macauley in his essay on "The History of the Popes" pays the following tribute to the power and vitality of the church, which will be read at this time with no little interest:

There is, and there never was on this earth, a work of human policy so well deserving of examination as the Roman Catholic church. The history of that church joins together the two greatest ages of human civilization. No other institution is left standing which carries the mind back to the times when the smoke of sacrifice rose from the Pantheon, and when gladiators and tigers bounded in the Flavian amphitheater. The proudest royal houses are but of yesterday when compared with the line of the supreme pontiffs. That line we trace back in an unbroken series from the pope who crowned Napoleon in the nineteenth century to the pope who crowned Pepin in the eighth; and far beyond the time of Pepin the august dynasty extends till it is lost in the twilight of fable. The republic of Venice came next in antiquity. But the republic of Venice was modern when compared with the papacy; and the republic of Venice is gone and the papacy remains. The papacy remains, not in decay, not a mere antique, but full of life and youthful vigor. The Catholic church is still sending forth to the farthest ends of the world missionaries as zealous as those who landed in Kent with Augustin, and still confronting kings with the same spirit with which she confronted Attila. The numerous children to whom she gave birth in former ages, the regulations which she made for the government of the new world have more than compensated her for what she has lost in the old. Her spiritual ascendency extends over the vast countries which lie between the plains of the Missouri and Cape Horn, countries which, a century hence, may not improbably contain a population as large as that which now inhabits Europe. The immense flock of her communion are certainly not fewer than 150,000,000; and it will be difficult to show that all the other Christian sects united amount to 125,000,000. Nor do we see any sign which indicates that the term of her long dominion is approaching. She saw the commencement of all the governments and of all the ecclesiastical establishments that now exist in the world, and we feel no assurance that she is not destined to see the end of them all. She was great and respected before the Saxon had set foot on Great Britain, before the Frank had passed the Rhine, when Grecian eloquence still flourished at Antioch, when idols were still worshipped in the temple of Mecca. And she may still exist in undiminished vigor when some traveler from New Zealand shall, in the midst of a vast solitude, take his stand on a broken arch of London bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's.

A good illustration of the effect prohibition has had upon the strength of the party in Iowa is given by Scott county. In this county, Davenport is the principal town, and in this town at least half the republican voters were Germans. In 1880 this county gave to Garfield a vote of 4,822 and to Hancock 2,594, or a republican majority of 1,728. The first presidential election after the prohibitory law was in 1884. In this year, Cleveland received 5,197 votes, Blaine, 2,740, or a democratic majority of 2,457. At the next presidential election, the democratic majority was 2,860. At the election in this month, the vote was for Hutchinson, republican, 1,645, and for Boies, democratic, 5,284, or a democratic majority of 3,639. Though the vote in this county is only about 7,000, yet here is a change in nine years from a republican majority of 1,728 to a democratic majority of 3,639. Miss Foster evidently saw the effect this was having on the republican party, and asked that the Women's Christian Temperance union cease to take sides about it. All there was of prohibition in Iowa was due to the work of the republican party, yet everywhere else Miss Willard hoisted that the temperance element should fight the party. The experience of the republican party in Iowa is that it has lost the state by being for prohibition, while in New York it has lost the state by being for the law which would result in the evil.

Shaking a congenial profession, he chose the law; studied in Montrose, Pa., and was admitted to the bar on "Lexington Day," April 19, 1847. At that time David Wilmot was the most prominent man in the Susquehanna district. The whole country spoke his name, with loud approval or bitter denunciation, for only the summer previous he had, in conjunction with [illegible] challenged state and sentiment.

Wilmot was known as a Free Soil Democrat. He did his own politicing; took counsel from humanity and [illegible] and delivered a judgment that subsequent happenings proved to be unerring. Among [illegible] and fearless in [illegible] those rights which Thomas Jefferson had declared to be heaven endowed and [illegible]. David Wilmot's attitude as a legislator was strikingly picturesque when he arose in the house of representatives (August, 1846) and offered a bill forbidding slavery in any territory which the United States might acquire as a war indemnity. That was his celebrated "Proviso," a firebrand amendment to the bill which called for the appropriation of $2,000,000, asked for by President Polk to cover the expenses of negotiations then pending with Mexico.

Gabriel A. Grow entered the bar of Wilmot, and, [illegible] to Towanda shortly after he began practice, became an office [illegible] with him. The association lasted for only three years, when Mr. Grow's [illegible] to business so impaired his health that he was forced to temporarily engage in rougher pursuits out of doors. He was successively a surveyor, a farmer and a gatherer of farmers' barks. During the autumn of 1851, he received from the Democratic party a bitterly contested nomination to the Pennsylvania legislature. It was very flattering and tempting, but he declined the promotion, which had been sought. Higher honors awaited him. David Wilmot (Free Soil) and James Lowrey (Free Soil) were rival Democratic candidates in the local congressional fight. Their opponent in the Whig party was John C. Allison. To insure his defeat, an agreement was made by which Lowrey and Wilmot both withdrew from the canvass and united their votes to be thrown in favor of a popular outsider candidate.

The Democratic conventions speedily reassembled. Gabriel A. Grow, then on the threshold of his twenty-seventh year, was placed in nomination by both factions of his party, and after a hot campaign of a week's duration he was elected. When he took his seat at Washington, in December of the following year, he was the youngest member of the house. For six successive terms he represented his district in congress, although his connection with the Democracy had been severed when the "Missouri compromise" was repealed. He was a recognized leader, giving and receiving hard blows in parliamentary debate. His period of service embraced the tempestuous sessions of the national legislature, a decade prior to that "black and bloody drama" which pitted civilization, and it also included the opening years of freedom's greatest struggle.

He was no passive onlooker when Kansas asked for justice. The "Homestead" and "Pacific Railroad" bills were his especial care. He threw himself heart and soul and brains into all notable discussions. The people heard of him far beyond Pennsylvania, and his impromptu speeches excited their admiration. The girl regarded as an object of a Hogarth, he won and kept the good will of those with whom he (figuratively) crossed blades. In the Blair speakership contest, his naval et and complements. The presidential campaign of John Charles Fremont in 1856, and Abraham Lincoln in 1860, enlisted Mr. Grow's hard labor and influential speech. As a member of the important house committee on Indian affairs, agriculture and territories, he did woman's work. His first talk in congress was strong in favor of the homestead bill. For five sessions he urged that measure, and, when it finally passed, it was a legislature expressing the offer of the house of representatives, that was its law.

In the one hundred years since the Federal constitution was adopted, thirty speakers have been chosen by the house. F. A. Muhlenberg, of Pennsylvania, was its first. He was succeeded by Jonathan Trumbull of Connecticut, and then [illegible] Henry Clay was elected, to be followed with the position. It was [illegible] to greatness of [illegible] and [illegible].

HUNDLEY'S NEW BARN

Some Description of the Handsome Livery Barn in the Country.

A GAZETTE representative yesterday was permitted to inspect Mr J H Hundley's livery barn, on Cascade avenue, next the Grand View hotel. The barn has been in course of erection for the last two months and is now nearing completion. The barn is 50x140 feet, and is very complete. There are stalls for 120 horses and all horses stand on the ground. All the stalls are of wood to the height of the horses backs, and then partitioned with cast iron posts, thus every horse in the stable and exactly what he is doing can be seen at a glance. This large room is lighted and ventilated by numerous windows, so arranged that draughts cannot blow over the animals when coming in warmly heated. The barn throughout is lighted by electricity, and as it is not designed to keep any great amount of hay stored, the chances are very small for a fire.

The city can justly be proud of the new barn, and Mr. Hundley is to be congratulated upon its completion. A great deal of credit is also due the architects, Messrs Peace & Barber, of this city. The cost has been about $20,000.

District Court.

People vs Charles Hubbard, grand larceny of a mare, saddle and halter from Frank Aubishon. Hubbard was arraigned and plead guilty. He is one of the prisoners who escaped from the county jail and was subsequently arrested.

The cases of the people vs. Ed Dolan and Walter Garrison, of Colorado City, for acting up a small gambling apparatus—roulette table, etc., in September 9th, came to trial. The jury returned at 12 o'clock but returned at 6 o'clock for further instructions. A verdict of guilty was returned.

Mr. Hudson, of the legal firm of Wolcott & Vaile, of Denver, appeared before the court with a petition from the Pike's Peak railway, praying for condemnation of a certain tract of land, the property of the Iron Springs company, for right of way, etc. The matter was set for hearing on December 20th.

People vs C McCleary, the petty larceny case from Colorado City on which the jury disagreed Tuesday, came up for trial again. A special venire of twenty-four jurymen was called. A verdict of guilty was returned late in the evening.

At five o'clock the case of Daniel Clark, for the theft of a silver watch from a mine named Corcoran one day last week, was taken up. Mr. S. H Kinsley defended Clark by appointment from the court. By skillful questioning he got the value of the watch reduced below what constitutes grand larceny, and a verdict was returned of guilty of petty larceny. This was Mr. Kinsley's first jury trial and he was warmly congratulated by the members of the bar and court officials for the manner in which he conducted the case.

Court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

Mr Webb has been the victim of a very severe cold for the past few weeks and has gone to derive benefit from a warm climate. He will be absent several weeks, spending a month at Pass Christian, on the Gulf of Mexico, near New Orleans.

Board of trade meeting this evening

A game of foot ball yesterday afternoon between the college junior and College senior clubs resulted in a victory of 39 to 0 in favor of the older boys

District Attorney Garrison and his assistant, Mr. John Cochran were feeling somewhat elated last night, having secured five convictions in the district court yesterday.

Every member of the board of trade should be present this evening at the meeting to be held in the city hall The board can point to a great deal of good work done during the past year.

Neat invitations have been issued for the first annual ball to be given by the Manitou brass band, at Wheeler's hall, Manitou, this evening A number will probably attend from this city

Mrs. McDowell Claybaugh, wife of Dr. J. P. Claybaugh, of Florissant, died at her home, November 12th, of consumption The funeral will occur from the residence of Rev H H Bell, 513 East Kiowa street, this morning, at 10 o'clock, with interment in Evergreen cemetery.

The GAZETTE is informed that students from the High school who have finished the eighth grade will be admitted to the junior class of the preparatory department of Colorado college by certificate as heretofore All others will be required to pass entrance examinations without condition.

Emery P. Moon, of Hosted, has furnished the following record of the weather for the week ending November 13th, 1889: Highest temperature, 57 on the 9th; lowest temperature, —1 on the 12th; weekly mean temperature, 30.29°. Direction of the wind, four days north, one day south, two days veering."

The amended certificate or articles of incorporation of the El Paso Electric company were filed with the county clerk yesterday. The articles certify that on the eighth day of October a meeting of the stockholders was held and that it was voted to increase the capital stock from $100,000 to $250,000.

John McFarland, who was concerned with Brady in the robbery and larceny of a watch at Monument last spring, was arrested in Denver yesterday. Sheriff Jackson left for Denver last night to get the prisoner. There need be no very great surprise if the sheriff brings Kelley, the escaped murderer, back with him.

Mr. James Gardner is the agent in this city for a grand drawing of lots to take place in Salt Lake City, February 1st, 1890. The lots are located in South Buena Vista and Coates & Corum's additions to Salt Lake, both suburbs of the city. Two houses are to be given away with the lots, valued at $1000 each. Lots are selling at $100 each on easy payments.

A meeting of the executive committee of the University club was held in the college chapel last night just preceding the Marden reception It was decided that the annual dinner should be postponed until January next. Arrangements were made for a discussion of the international copyright law before the society by Mr. G. H. Putnam, head of the great Putnam publishing house of New York, who is a guest in the city. The lecture will occur on Friday evening, November 29th, place to be announced hereafter.

The weather permitting the Collins Riding school will be opened at the Athletic grounds to day at eleven o'clock. The Firemen's band will leave the Antlers at half-past ten o'clock and both riders and vehicles may join the procession to the grounds there, if so desired. At the grounds the space outside the track will be reserved especially for vehicles so that the occupants of the latter may have a view of all that takes place on the track and inside the circle There will be entertainment in the way of fancy riding and music by the band. The admission to the grounds is free and everybody is invited. No lessons will be given to day, but Mr. Collins will give any information which may be asked for with regard to horseback riding.

The first of the Winkler matinee concerts given in Weber hall yesterday afternoon was fairly well attended, but nothing in comparison to what the entertainment deserved. The audience present was one that could thoroughly appreciate the splendid music, however. A programme of seven numbers was given, the following well-known artists taking part. Mrs Emil Winkler, mezzo soprano; Miss Mina Ehrlicher, piano; Dr. J. C. Pennington, violin, and Emil Winkler, cello. All the numbers were excellent and received the hearty applause they merited. The particularly pleasing feature of the concert was the singing of Mrs Emil Winkler, nee Robbinson, whose sweet voice is already familiar to Colorado Springs people: Her first number was a German song by Rubenstein, followed by the "Linden Tree," by Schubert. The remainder of the concerts in the course will be much more largely attended, no doubt.

Out of the twenty seven poll books sent in to the canvassing board from the various precincts in the county fourteen are incomplete and will have to be returned to the judges who made them up. The election laws are very strict on the subject of the methods for filling in the polling books, certifying to them, etc., and in order that their might be no mistake each book contained a letter gotten up by County Clerk Eaton clearly explaining the requirements of the law but notwithstanding this many judges neglected to fulfill the requirements. The law provides that in case of error in the books the canvassing board may appoint one of their number to visit the judges making the error and have it corrected. Messrs G. L. Phillips and E. P. McElroy have been assigned to this duty and will start out to day. The unnecessary delay, time and trouble to the board and expense to the county might have been easily avoided
